

October 8 – 11, 2019

Hotel INNSIDE by Melia, Salzgasse 4, 01067 Dresden, Germany

After successful Annual Workshops of the Helmholtz International Research School (IHRS) NanoNet in the last years and our International Workshop in Prague 2016, we will continue this series and will bring it to the heart of Dresden.

Saxony's capital Dresden is famous for its numerous overwhelming sights in a quite confined space. You can find architecture and arts from the Renaissance, the Baroque, up to the modern times in close vicinity to the conference venue.

About NanoNet

The International Helmholtz Research School NanoNet is funded by the German Helmholtz Association, and is run by the Helmholtz-Zentrum Dresden-Rossendorf (HZDR) in collaboration with partners from the Dresden area: TU Dresden, Leibniz IPF, NaMLab gGmbH, and Fraunhofer IKTS. We have 20 PhD candidates in our School at the moment. They have a background in physics, chemistry and materials science. More information at www.hzdr.de/NanoNet.

Workshop Focus

We expect about 80 participants, students and scientists from our School, from the Dresden area, and from other institutions and labs. The program will cover the following topics:

- ▶ Single Molecules
- ▶ Nanowires
- ▶ 2D materials
- ▶ DNA and Self Organisation
- ▶ General Nanotechnology
- ▶ Theory

Besides the lectures given by the Invited Speakers, Contributed Talks and Posters are welcome. A Best Poster Prize will be presented.
